

WYCOMBE Wanderers manager Ted Powell is expected to make several changes from the side that crashed 3-0 at Hendon on Tuesday when the Blues meet Dagenham tomorrow (Saturday) in the Rothmans Isthmian League.

Powell was 'extremely disappointed' by his team's display at Claremont Road and may bring in Bobby Davies for his first league game at left-back while a change in midfield is also highly likely. It was in midfield that the Blues struggled on Tuesday and John Priestley may be brought in at the expense of Howard Kennedy. Gavin Fraser, who was so impressive in the friendlies, is out of consideration as he is serving a month's suspension after being sent off in a Borough Road College game last season. His suspension finishes on September 12.

Up front Dylan Evans could return for George Cleary, who has had two disappointing matches.

Dagenham have won two, drawn one and lost one of their first four matches and with the same side as last season, can be expected to provide stern opposition tomorrow.

This is the first time for many years that Wanderers have been at home on the same day as the Wycombe Show. On Monday the Blues travel to Southall for another league game where they will face former Wycombe striker Derek Harris who has been amongst the goals this season.
